presents:*

Duneland Dynamics: Scenes and Stories of the Dunes

By Prof. Kenneth Schoon

This presentation integrates dozens of colorful scenes of today's Indiana Dune and describes their ecological importance and stories from yesteryear. Topics include fur trading and a small French "fort," our Revolutionary War skirmish, hermits, developers, and scams, railroads, the birth of American ecology, and efforts to save the dunes amid efforts to industrialize, the new Midwest birding festival, and the "3-Dune Challenge." Dr. Kenneth J. Schoon is a professor emeritus of science education at Indiana University Northwest. His research interests center around local studies and misconceptions in science. Dr. Schoon is a founding board member and past president of the Dunes Learning Center. Signed copies of his book Dreams of Duneland (new edition in 2021) will be available for purchase.
